Following up your patriotic and sympa ns concerning the sub ions of our home people to the fund for recting a monument to the late President Garfield, may 1 be permitted to suggest that all such subscriptions should be placed in the hands of a committee of five of our own honored citizens, to be composed of, say three Democrats and two Republicans; and that the money so subscribed shall be invested in a statue or monument to be erected within the limits of our own city. This, it seems to me, would be a wise move, looked at from almost any standpoint but particularly in the interest of a broad, generous and fraternal patriotism. What think you of the idea? A Card. The parties and papers which have been ost unsparing in denunciations of the Water company have (incoesistent as it may appear), expressed confidence in the manin their individual capacity. And n our individual capacity, we, citizens interested in the Water company, desirto say a few words to the people. It has been said that enormous profits have been divided among the stockho'ders. Not one dollar in cash has been so divided. When the five persons who first bought the Waterworks came into possession they capitalized it at a sum considerably less than a foreign corporation proposed giving for it, and at which they would have bought it but for the failure of some of the number. This surely affected no one but the stockholders who held the increased amount of stock and such parties as purchased stock from them. During the whole term of the present manage ment a ten per cent, sock dividend has been the earnings up to January next, including the carnings up to January next, in addi-tion to which a large debt has been incurred. Now, as to the collection of bills. Every water consumer, when he received his bill on the 1st of July, received with it a printed list of rules, and printed in red ink on the face of the bill was a reference to one of the vance, and our rates are considerably lower than the average of cities. Sadly as the public has been inconvenienced, and much as they have suffered, the Water company, too, has lost heavily by the numerous breaks and purchase of pumps for temporary supply, all resulting from the fact that the old m and Jane Scott.

Yesterday Jennie E. Stewart filed a bill or divorce against her husband, James Stewart, in the Circuit Court. The following statement is taken from the document: They were married in May, 1872. Shortly after this event he began to mistreat her, and when she was in a delicate condition he beat her. He has always been absurdly an picious of men, and she could not speak to one of the opposite sex without exciting his ire. On one occasion he accused her in the most abusive language of putting poison into his coffee, and made this accusation several times, although she declares by every-thing that is holy she never did anything of the kind.

They have been living about six miles from the city, on Davie avenue, remote from the church of which she is a member, and a the church of which she is a member, and at which it has been her custom to worship God. In several instances Stewart has in the most insulting language alluded to her desire to go to church, and has taunted her with being a base hypocrite. He has, accordingly, failed to provide any way for her and her children to attend church. The result is that she and her children are deprived the provides and privilege of devine wor. of the pleasure and privilege of divine wor-ship. On several occasions he has come home so drunk that he was outrageously vio-lent. He had conceived a violent prejudice against her sixteen-year-old son, by a former sire, and she had to send him away lest he should be personally harmed. He has afforded her and her children a very meagre support, and she prays for a divorce a vir
